

Seminar on Imperialism
PLSC 486X
Fall 2013

Benjamin O. Fordham

E-mail: bfordham@binghamton.edu

Office phone: 777-4398

Office Hours:

LNG 58

Tuesday, 1-3; Wednesday, 10-11; and by appointment

This seminar will focus on the phenomenon of imperialism, especially as it has been practiced by modern states. The exercise of power by the United States since the end of the Cold War, and especially since 9/11, has sparked renewed interest in the topic, but imperialism has long been an important issue in international relations theory. European imperialism was crucial in the development of the contemporary international system, and its legacy continues to influence the international distribution of power and wealth. This course will examine the reasons for the rise of empires, the ways imperial states maintain their power, why empires have collapsed, and what their legacies have been. Beyond the historical significance of the topic, the theories developed to explain it are useful for understanding many aspects of international relations, especially interactions between great powers and militarily weaker states and societies. In particular, we will consider whether theoretical arguments developed to explain the course of earlier empires help in understanding American foreign policy.

Course Materials

We will read most or all of five books during the course of the semester. These books are available at the campus bookstore but you could certainly order them online as well.

- Go, Julian. 2011. Patterns of Empire. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- Hobson, J. A. 2005 [1902]. Imperialism: A Study. New York: Cosimo.
- Howe, Stephen. 2002. Empire: A Very Short Introduction. New York: Oxford University Press
- Snyder, Jack. 1991. Myths of Empire. Ithaca: Cornell University Press
- Spruyt, Hendrik. 2005. Ending Empire. Ithaca: Cornell University Press.

In addition to these books, we will read many articles and book chapters. I will also ask you to watch several movies outside of class to add to our discussion. Where these materials are available online, usually through the JSTOR database, I have provided a link in this syllabus. Please remember that you will need to be logged in to the library in order to use the links to the J-STOR database. Where no link is provided, and the reading is not from one of the five books listed above, I have posted a PDF image of the material in the "course documents" section of the Blackboard page for this class.

Assignments and Grading

Attendance and Participation. Because this class is a seminar, we will spend nearly all our time discussing the assigned readings. There will be no lectures. Your participation is essential to the success of the class. Completing the assigned reading is vital, but you also need to be prepared to discuss them. I may ask one of you to summarize a particular reading when we begin discussing it. Make sure you know the essentials of each author's argument. The quality of your participation in class discussion will count for 30 percent of your semester grade.

This class meets only once each week, so we have relatively few sessions. For this reason, attendance is especially important. If you miss more than one class for any reason, your final grade will be lowered by one full letter grade for each additional session you do not attend.

In-Class Assignments. During the semester, there will be several in-class assignments. The format of these assignments will vary. Sometimes, I will ask each of you to write a paragraph answering a question about the week's topic prior to our discussion. I may also give brief multiple-choice quizzes about the reading for that week. These questions will be designed to test your basic knowledge of the reading. No make-up assignments will be offered if you are absent from class when one of these assignments takes place, but I will drop the lowest grade you receive on them. Overall, these assignments will account for 20 percent of your final grade.

Term Paper. Each student will write a term paper on a topic related to the course. This paper should be roughly 15-30 pages long, although your grade will not depend on the number of pages you write.

A prospectus for your term paper is due no later than the October 30th class meeting. The prospectus is important. It will count for 10 percent of your final grade. The prospectus should do the following:

1. State the research question your paper will answer, explaining why it is important. It is much easier to write a research paper based on a question than on a general topic area. This question could be historically specific, focusing on a particular set of places and times. Here are a few examples:

- To what extent did the United States exercise imperial control over Indonesia between its independence in 1949 and the overthrow of Sukarno in 1965?
- Why were the French able to colonize parts of Southeast Asia beginning in the 1860s but failed to colonize Mexico when they attempted to do so around the same time?
- Why was Ethiopia able to resist European colonization during the late 19th Century when nearly all of rest of the African continent was divided into European colonies?

Alternatively, your research question could be more general, focusing on relationships that apply to many different historical cases. Example include the following:

- Why did some colonies become independent peacefully, while others did so only after a violent revolution? Why do some colonial rebellions fail, while others result in independence?
- Why were British colonies more likely to become democracies after independence than French colonies were?
- Does the presence of a dominant power in a region reduce the level of militarized violence there?

2. Briefly discuss at least two different arguments that could answer your research question. The theoretical arguments we will read during the semester could suggest answers to your question.

3. Explain how you will test the value of the answers you proposed to your research question. You may do so using a careful study of a small number of relevant cases, or by gathering data on a larger number of cases.

4. Provide a list of the sources you will use. In addition to giving a citation for each source, you should write one or two sentences explaining what information it will provide and how it will relate to your overall argument. For example, you might locate statistics on U.S. trade and investment in Indonesia during the 1945-65 period, cite this source, and note that you plan to use it to show the relevance (or irrelevance) of these economic considerations in shaping the relationship.

The term paper is due no later than noon on Monday, December 16th. You should submit your paper through turnitin.com, at the link provided in the Blackboard page for the class. You may provide me with a hard copy of your paper if you prefer, but the text must still be submitted to turnitin.com. If you submit the paper on or before December 2nd, I will comment on it and return it to you for revision if you like. Your term paper will be worth 40% of your final grade for the semester.

Plagiarism. Originality is extremely important in relatively long writing assignments like the one in this class. Make sure you indicate all excerpts that are quoted or closely paraphrased from another work. The works you use in preparing your paper should be properly cited. Any citation system you like is acceptable, provided that you use it consistently. If you are unsure about your citation practices, please consult me. Submitting as your own the work of another author is plagiarism, and is completely unacceptable. Anyone submitting plagiarized work will receive an "F" in the course and will face further disciplinary action from the University.

Tentative Schedule

The dates and reading assignments may change during the semester. If so, an announcement will be made in class.

Meeting Date	Topic and Reading Assignment
August 28	Introduction
September 4	University Holiday: No Class Meeting

September 11

Defining Empire and Imperialism

Discussion questions: What is an "empire," and how does it differ from a large state? What is "imperialism," and how does it differ from an ordinary foreign policy? To what extent should we expect similarities among empires? Does the United States have an empire? In what ways is the present-day United States similar to, and different from, 19th Century Britain?

Reading Assignment:

- Howe, Stephen. 2002. Empire: A Very Short Introduction. New York: Oxford University Press. (entire book)
- Supplemental movie: "Empires: Queen Victoria" (PBS production available online through YouTube)

September 18

The Rise of Empires I: Classic Economic Theories

Discussion questions: Why does Hobson say "surplus capital" promotes imperialism? What is the role of interest groups? Is capitalism inevitably imperialistic? How do Lenin's and Kautsky's accounts of imperialism differ from Hobson's, and from one another? What are the limits of economic explanations?

Reading Assignment:

- Hobson, J. A. 2005 [1902]. Imperialism: A Study. New York: Cosimo. Part I.
- Lenin, Vladimir I. 1916. "Imperialism, the Highest Stage of Capitalism." <http://www.marxists.org/archive/lenin/works/1916/imp-hsc/index.htm>
- Kautsky, Karl. 1914. "Ultra-Imperialism." <http://www.marxists.org/archive/kautsky/1914/09/ultra-imp.htm>
- Magdoff, Harry. 1970. "Militarism and Imperialism." American Economic Review 60(2): 237-42. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/1815812>

September 25

The Rise of Empires II: Political Theories

Discussion questions: What problems with economic theories of imperialism do these authors find? Do these concerns apply to all the economic theories we have considered, or only to some of them? What alternative theoretical explanation do these authors suggest?

Reading Assignment:

- Cohen, Benjamin J. 1973. The Question of Imperialism. New York: Basic Books, chapter 7.
- Waltz, Kenneth N. 1979. Theory of International Politics. Reading, PA: Addison Wesley, chapter 2.
- Schumpeter, Joseph A. 1951 [1919]. "The Sociology of Imperialisms." In Imperialism and Social Classes, tr. Heinz Norden. Cleveland: Meridian Books. 1-98. <http://mises.org/books/imperialism.pdf>
- Forde, Steven. 1986. "Thucydides on the Causes of Athenian Imperialism." American Political Science Review 80 (2): 433-448. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/1958267>

October 2

The Rise of Empires III: Technology and Conditions in the Periphery

Discussion questions: What was the role of technology in promoting European imperialism? Why might conditions on the colonized areas be more important in shaping imperialism than conditions in the metropole? Do overseas trade and investment make colonialism more likely? What conditions are most likely to "invite" imperialism? Could these conditions emerge today?

Reading Assignment:

- Headrick, Daniel. 1981. Tools of Empire. New York: Oxford University Press. Introduction and Part Two.
- Gallagher, John A. and Ronald J. Robinson. 1953. "The Imperialism of Free Trade." Economic History Review, 2nd series, 6(1): 1-15. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/2591017>
- Robinson, Ronald. 1972. "Non-European Foundations of European Imperialism: Sketch for a Theory of Collaboration." In Studies in the Theory of Imperialism. London: Longman.
- Galbraith, John S. 1960. "The 'Turbulent Frontier' as a Factor in British Expansion." Comparative Studies in Society and History 2 (2): 150-68. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/177813>

October 9

Running the Empire

Discussion questions: What is the best way to organize an empire? Is colonial rule the best way to exercise "imperial" power? Are there good alternatives to military coercion as a tool for building and maintaining an empire?

Reading Assignment:

- Cooley, David. 2005. Logics of Hierarchy. Ithaca: Cornell University Press. Chapters 1-3.
- Lake, David A. 1996. "Anarchy, Hierarchy, and the Variety of International Relations." International Organization 50 (1): 1-33. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/2706997>
- Robinson, Ronald. 1972. "Non-European Foundations of European Imperialism: Sketch for a Theory of Collaboration." In Studies in the Theory of Imperialism. London: Longman. (This is a repeat from the previous week, but it is sure to come up again.)
- Fick, Nathaniel C., John A. Nagl, and David H. Petraeus. 2009. "How to Win a Losing War." Foreign Policy 170: 42-7. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/25462378>
- Supplemental movie: Mister Johnson (1991)

October 16

Justifying the Empire

Discussion questions: How do empires justify their power? How, if at all, can the subject people be persuaded to accept this situation as legitimate? Is imperialism ever really justifiable?

Reading Assignment:

- Hechter, Michael. 2009. "Alien Rule and Its Discontents." American Behavioral Scientist 53(3): 289-310. <http://abs.sagepub.com/content/53/3/289>
- Ikenberry, G. John, and Charles A. Kupchan. 1990. "Socialization and Hegemonic Power." International Organization 44 (3): 283-315. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/2706778>
- Alice Conklin, "Colonialism and Human Rights, a Contradiction in Terms? The Case of France and West Africa, 1895-1914." American Historical Review 103(2): 419-442. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/2649774>
- Crocker, Chester A. 2003. "Engaging Failing States." Foreign Affairs 82(5): 32-44. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/20033681>
- Supplemental movie: Lives of a Bengal Lancer (1935)

October 23

No Class Meeting

October 30

Comparing Empires

Did the United States and Britain really go through the same stages in their growth and decline as imperial powers? Should we expect most imperial powers to display the same pattern? When are these kinds of historical comparisons likely to be misleading?

Reading Assignment:

- Go, Julian. 2011. Patterns of Empire. New York: Cambridge University Press.
- Supplemental movie: "In the Loop" (2009)

November 6

Empires and Democracy

Does having an empire erode democracy within the imperial power? Can empires spread democracy to the areas of the world they rule?

Reading Assignment:

- Hobson, J. A. 2005 [1902]. Imperialism: A Study. New York: Cosimo. Part II, chapters 1, 3, and 7.
- Chua, Amy. 2007. Day of Empire. New York: Doubleday. Introduction and chapter 6.
- Skrentny, John David. 1998. The effect of the Cold War on African-American civil rights: America and the world audience, 1945-1968. Theory and Society 27: 237-285. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/657868>
- Peceny, Mark. 1999. "Forcing Them to Be Free." Political Research Quarterly 52 (3): 549-82. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/449149>
- Johnson, Chalmers. 2006. Nemesis. New York: Henry Holt and Company. Chapter 2.
- Supplemental movie: Seven Days in May (1964)

November 13

Imperialism, Aggression, and War

Discussion questions: Does imperialism make war among imperial states more likely? Is imperialism the same thing as an "aggressive foreign policy"? Are the "myths of empire" Snyder discusses the causes of empire, or results of it?

Reading Assignment:

- Snyder, Jack. 1991. Myths of Empire. Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press. Chapters 1-3, 7-8, and one other chapter of your choice.
- Supplemental movie: Breaker Morant (1980)

November 20

Benefits of Empire?

Discussion questions: Is an empire (or at least a hegemon) necessary to provide certain international public goods? What benefits do empires provide to the people incorporated into the empire? Are these benefits likely to exceed the costs they impose?

Reading Assignment:

- Krasner, Stephen D. 1976. "State Power and the Structure of Foreign Trade." World Politics 28(3): 317-47. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/2009974>
- Ferguson, Niall, and Morris Schularick. 2006. "The Empire Effect: The Determinants of Country Risk in the First Age of Globalization, 1880-1913." Journal of Economic History 66(2): 283-312. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/3874878>
- Coyne, Christopher, and Steven Davies. 2007. "Empire: Public Goods and Bads." Econ Journal Watch 4(1): 3-45. www.econjournalwatch.org/main/intermedia.php?filename=EJWCompleteIssueJanuary2007.pdf#page=4
- Ikenberry, G. John. 2001. "American Power and the Empire of Capitalist Democracy." In Michael Cox, Tim Dunne, and Ken Booth, eds., Empires, Systems, and States. New York: Cambridge University Press. 191-212.
- Butt, Ahsan I. 2013. "Anarchy and Hierarchy in International Relations: Examining South America's War-Prone Decade, 1932-41." International Organization 67(3): 575-607. http://journals.cambridge.org/abstract\_S0020818313000155

November 27

Thanksgiving Holiday: No Class Meeting

December 4

Decolonization

Discussion questions: Why did the colonial empires that existed in the early 20th century fall apart so quickly after World War II? Can the same considerations that explain the rise of empires explain their collapse as well? Why were some decolonization processes peaceful and others violent?

Reading Assignment:

- Spruyt, Hendrik. 2005. Ending Empire. Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press.
- Supplemental movie: "The Battle of Algiers" (1966)

December 11 Economic and Political Legacies of Imperialism

Discussion questions: What was the effect of imperialism on economic growth and inequality in colonized areas? What imperial practices might make democracy, ethnic conflict, or other political outcomes more or less likely?

Reading Assignment:

- Frank, Andre Gunder. 1966. "The Development of Underdevelopment." Latin America: Underdevelopment or Revolution. New York: Monthly Review Press. 3-17.
- Bairoch, Paul. 1986. "Historical Roots of Economic Underdevelopment: Myths and Realities." In Imperialism and After, edited by Wolfgang J. Mommsen and Jurgen Osterhammel. London: Allen & Unwin. 191-216.
- Mahoney, James. 2003. "Long-Run Development and the Legacy of Colonialism in Spanish America." American Journal of Sociology 109 (1): 50-106.
<http://www.jstor.org/stable/10.1086/378454>
- Laitin, David D. 1985. "Hegemony and Religious Conflict: British Imperial Control and Political Cleavages in Yorubaland." In Peter B. Evans, Dietrich Rueschemeyer, and Theda Skocpol, eds., Bringing the State Back In. New York: Cambridge University Press. 285-316.